Founded in 1939, Hartville MarketPlace & Flea Market has grown into a one-of-a-kind shopping destination. The indoor market features over 100 unique shops offering food, fashion, crafts, antiques, home décor, and more, along with a fully stocked food court serving everything from gourmet treats to classic favorites like burgers and fries. Outside, you'll explore one of Ohio's largest open-air flea markets, with more than 800 vendors during peak season.

We'll enjoy lunch at the famous Hartville Kitchen Restaurant, where you'll choose your entrée from a specially presented menu. Each meal includes two sides, a slice of pie or cake, and a beverage—all while enjoying the irresistible aroma of freshly baked goods from the in-house bakery next door.

After lunch, take time to visit Hartville Hardware, proudly known as America's Largest Hardware Store. Far more than a traditional hardware store, it offers everything from grills and outdoor furniture to clothing and John Deere tractors. It's so large it even has a house and a barn inside—making it a fun destination to explore, even if you're "just looking!"
